81362	Ednaston Manor Painters Lane Ednaston Derbyshire DE6 3BA	Small country house. 1912-19 for W G Player, by Edwin Lutyens. Queen Anne style. Reddish brown Bedfordshire brick laid in Flemish bond, with sandstone dressings. Steeply pitched, plain tile, hipped roofs with massive central brick stack and four massive brick ridge stacks. Two storeys and attics, and single storey angle pavilions. H-plan with broad centre stroke running west to east. All facades are symmetrical with white painted wooden casement windows under flat arches, the casements with small panes and thick glazing bars. West elevation of five unequal bays, divided by giant pilasters with slightly projecting entasis and capitals, with wreath motifs. The centre two crowned by a triangular pediment. White painted coved eaves cornice. Central doorway with lugged architrave and heavy swan neck pediment, enclosing the Player armorial trophy. Glazed double doors. Two windows either side with brick voussoirs and key blocks to the outer windows. The inner windows narrower. Similar fenestration above. Blind end bays set back, with a corresponding break in the roof. Two small hipped roof dormers close to the middle. Stone plinth and stone band, linking the ground floor windows and continuing as the plinth and coping to the forecourt walls, which form a semi-circular courtyard with two drive entrances and a central entrance, providing a view to and from the main entrance. Single storey pavilions, visually separate, at the angles. That to the south is a garden house, linked by a wall with gateway with lugged architrave. That to the north is a billiard room built-in 1980, an intended part of Lutyen's design. South elevation of eight bays, the outer four projecting. Stone plinth, band, and coved eaves cornice continue from the west elevation. Central doorway with Doric pilasters and an open pediment containing a wreath of saffron flowers. French doors, flanked by tall narrow windows under flat arches with brick voussoirs. French doors on either side with lugged architraves.	I	13/09/1967
